FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Washington, D.C. July 15, 2006

The local music scene will never be the same again

Local musicians have one word on their mind: bandbo.com. Bandbo.com is sweeping the local music scene and changing it indefinitely. Finally, musicians have an arena to meet, share information, gather information, broadcast their music, promote their bands, search for gigs, research managers, and more. Bandbo.com is an endless list of resources for musicians and venues alike.

Local musicians struggle to find gigs, managers, and band members. Venues and managers struggle to find bands. Bandbo.com brings these two worlds together providing message boards and databases which both musicians and managers/venues/record labels can use at their disposal. In the short time since bandbo.com has launched, countless musicians have sung its praises. Kevin Cross, the lead singer of a local country band named Silverado stated about bandbo, It's great to find a place that supports local musicians. Keep up the great work.

Bandbo is a multifaceted project which continues to grow on different dimensions. Bandbo Digs and Catch the Show launched this month. These videos include interviews with artists/producers/etc as well as excerpts of shows.

Bandbo.com is revolutionizing the local music scene. Permission is granted to use material on this release. Ben Osterhaus is available for interviews. Visit www.bandbo.com.
